Young Band Becoming Popular; Youngsters Enthusiastic

To Take Part in Calgary Stampede Parade; Citizens Enjoy Hearing Them Play in Residential Part of Town.

While Coleman may not have the best town band in southern Alberta it is doubtful if a band as more enthusiastic members than the local organization. Bandmaster Jim Lowe and secretary V. Colagrosso have brought together a number of youngsters who are learning to play musical instruments. Through hard work and perseverance they aim at developing local talent that will in a few years be a credit to the town.

When the evenings are pleasant the band can be seen marching through residential parts of town, blithely playing snappy music much to the pleasure of citizens who come out on their verandahs to hear the music. They also live up main street on Saturday evenings with fine playing.

The band has been invited to participate in the parade of the Calgary Stampede. The invitation has been accepted and a drive is now on to secure funds. In order to accept the invitation it was necessary to invite a few Pass bandmen to join the local band and so strengthen it as several of the youngsters, though practicing hard, were not ready to meet a severe test of this nature.

Council voted a $25 donation to aid them meet expenses.

Council to Co-Operate With Canadian Legion in Sponsoring Army Week, June 29 to July 5

West Coleman Residents Threaten Council With Non-Payment of Taxes; Town Fairly Free of Disease.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Monday evening. Present were Mayor Antrobus, Councillors Abousafy, Dutil, Ford, Jenkins and Ramsay. George Derbyshire was present to ask council's co-operation with the local Canadian Legion branch in sponsoring "Army Week" from June 29 to July 5. The Legion has a number of ideas which they hope will make the week an unqualified success such as a decorated bicycle parade, having a number of soldiers home on leave, military parade, etc. These ideas will be further discussed when the council and Legion meet next Sunday evening to prepare a program.

Mr. Jack Clarke again asked council to relieve the pressure against his back fence, which he claimed was due to the town having four years ago dumped gravel too close to it. It was revealed at the time the town had built a rock wall for his neighbor in order to relieve pressure of the gravel against the latter's fence. Council moved that a similar rock wall be built for Mr. Clarke.

Charles Makin was present to see if any steps had been taken by council to collect the ash fee through taxation. Council informed him that no further steps had been taken on the matter. A mild argument started regarding the hauling of ashes. According to Mr. Makin he is having a tough job collecting from a number of citizens and has to stand much abuse. Some citizens were guilty of dumping ashes in the big hole on Fifth street. The by-law governing ashes was read which says it is compulsory for citizens to have ashes taken from their premises. Others failed to have proper ash receptacles and he had to scrape ashes off the ground.

Council ordered him to have a cover on his truck starting immediately and to dump the ashes in the town dump in East Coleman. Many complaints had been received from residents at the west end of Fifth and Sixth streets on ash dust coming from the sports field. The question of raising the monthly fee was brought up but will be fully discussed at a later date. Council assured Mr. Makin they fully realized he had many difficulties and would co-operate with him in making his job a little easier.

A delegation was present from West Coleman asking council to help drain some backstreets and basements which still remain flooded. The stretch, they state, is now becoming unbearable. Various remedies were proposed by the delegation. It was finally decided that the town foreman and his helpers would be sent to West Coleman and that Mayor Antrobus take the steps to secure permission to divert the creek should that be necessary in order to allow sufficient drainage from the flooded area.

Complaints are again being received from West Coleman residents claiming their property is sinking due to underground workings. One party stated $150 damage had been wrought to his property. A letter will be sent International Coal & Coke Co. asking that company officials meet in conference with council to discuss paid matter.

The town and school taxes of Steve Bettinger, town dump supervisor, were authorized paid.

Papers relating to Wm. Gardiner will be placed in the hands of the town solicitor for further action.

A local citizen was recommended for the Old Age pension.

The medical health report revealed that two mild cases of scarlet fever had been found in town and two mild cases out of town. One case of mumps was also reported. A number of children had been inoculated against fever and diphtheria.

In his report on sanitary conditions in the flood area, Dr. Claxton stated that conditions were satisfactory. At this time of the year bacterial growth is not acute and there are few flies and insects to carry disease. He recommended that the town water supply be examined.

The latest water analysis received by the council revealed that the water is pure.

A letter was received from the town band secretary stating that the band had been invited to take part in the Calgary Stampede parade and asked for a donation. Considerable discussion took place on the band, it being stated that in past years the band donation had not been spent as council would have liked it to be spent. However, this year conditions were changed. A few adults were working hard to train youngsters to play as a band and have it purely a local affair. It was felt that their efforts should be recognized and encouraged. Councillor Jenkins informed council that it was not the intention of the band leaders to use all the youngsters as some were not ready for a test of this nature. A few bandmen would be secured from neighboring towns to strengthen the local band. He thought, but was not quite sure, that all the youngsters would be taken on the trip. A donation of $25 was granted.

In view of the amount of work done by council in trying to meet C.P.R. and government officials to talk of flood conditions and trying to secure compensation, and also international officials in regards to underground sinkings in the West Coleman area, a number of councillors were greatly surprised when following "salutatum" was received from 44 West Coleman taxpayers. It reads:

"We, the undersigned taxpayers, residents of West Coleman of Second street, affected by recent flood, are petitioning you, in regards of 1942 town and school taxes. That all of us are strongly opposed for such a high taxation on our property. Since the area is affected by caving in the old mine, by great amount of water standing every spring to late summer, and also by the flood, the value of our property is reduced by over 50% and you GENTLEMEN should take that into deeper consideration before sending us a tax notice.

"Also we the undersigned taxpayers jointly together, strictly opposed towards paying the 1942

SUGAR FOR PRESERVING

Despite reduction of the sugar ration from three-quarters of a pound of sugar per week per person, to half a pound, Walter S. Campbell, Prices and Supply Representative in Alberta for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, says that housewives putting up preserves may still obtain extra sugar for that purpose.

For canning fruit, one-half pound of sugar can be obtained for each pound of fruit. For jams and jellies, three-quarters of a pound of sugar can be obtained for each pound of fruit. The housewife must acquire her retailer with the use for which the extra sugar is required, and sign a statement to that effect.

Rebekah Lodge Present Mrs. G. Hope With Veteran's Jewel

Quilt Raffle Won by Miss Ethel S. Dunlop; Mrs. Hope Given Parting Gift.

At the regular meeting of Victoria Rebekah lodge on Tuesday, the highlight of the evening was the presentation of a Veteran's Jewel to Sister Ellen Hope, emblematic of 30 years membership. Sister Hope was absent when the jewel was originally scheduled to have been presented. Following refreshments Mrs. Hope was again the recipient of a presentation, this time a parting gift from members of the lodge. The presentation was made by Sister Lonsbury, who expressed the regret of the lodge at losing the services of Sister Hope, who leaves next month to live at the Pacific coast. Sister Hope thanked the members for their kindness.

During the evening the draw was made for the Rebekah quilt. Miss Ethel Dunlop, with ticket 140, was the winner. The quilt was donated by Mrs. Lonsbury for war work.

TEA FOR SOLDIERS

With the new tea-rationing regulations, enquiries have come to officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, concerning the inclusion of tea in soldier's boxes. T. K. Macdonald, administrator of Tea says these cannot be considered apart from the household allowance. If a housewife formerly used two pounds of tea in a month, purchases must now be reduced to one pound per month and any tea for soldier's boxes taken from the ration amount.

THEATRE NOTES

An all technicolor production "To The Shores of Tripoli" starring Randolph Scott and John Payne comes to the Palace screen this week-end. It is an adventure story and deals with war time conditions.

At Colby theatre, Bellevue, the long looked for film "Suspicion" is playing. Starring roles are played by Cary Grant and Joan Fontaine. It was her acting in this picture that won for Miss Fontaine the honor of having done the best piece of dramatic acting in 1941. Cary Grant always gives a sterling performance and many Pass theatre patrons are expected to see this film.

Mrs. J. R. Hague entertained at her home on Thursday, June 11, in honor of Mrs. M. Clifford, who will leave shortly for an extended visit with relatives in Ontario. Bridge was played honors going to Miss A. Yuill, Mrs. H. T. Halliwell and Mrs. J. Naylor.

taxes until we are well protected against any flood that might occur in the future.

"We understand that the recent flood that we suffered was through all responsibility of C.P.R. The duty of the town council now is to see that course of McGillivray creek is changed entirely and full amount of water run into Old Man river.

"Not unless before such things are changed, the tax will be paid."

Upon perusing the names of the petitioners council found that a goodly number of them had not been affected by either flood, or damage caused by the ground sinking below their property.

The above communication was received and filed.

Council was informed that the new street lighting equipment was enroute here.

Councillor Ford was authorized to approach Coleman Light & Water officials with a view of securing water service for the Geo. Heiblen residence located on the Flat.

Girl Guides Hold Annual Badge Presentation

The First Coleman Guide company held its 1941-42 badge presentation on Monday, June 15.

The program was under the care of the Patrol Leaders, and each of the five patrols took part in several items which were enjoyed by the parents and friends attending.

During Horseshoe, Eileen Kellington was enrolled as a Guide, and the following girls were awarded badges 45 being presented:

Lenore Dafeo	9 badges
Joyce McMullen	8 badges
Isobel Ewing	8 badges
Joanne Handzel	7 badges
Edna Lier	3 badges
Louise Abousafy	2 badges
Corinne Fraser	1 badge
Mary Castellano	1 badge
Jenny Andrechak	1 badge
Cecelia McEwen	1 badge
Frances Dibblee	1 badge
Shirley Hubbert	1 badge

A change was made in the color party procedure, this year. We have always used the First Company flags. This time, however, we had Betty Knowles, with Patricia McIntyre and Jenny Andrechak as guards, carry the Union Jack presented to the Second Company by the Elks Lodge at the Coronation celebration, while Joanne Handzel, guarded by Joanne Beasley carried the Guide World flag, presented to the First Company by the late Mr. Geo. Kellock.

We have had a very interrupted year, but, on the whole we are quite pleased with the final result. We were unable to draw a lot to join the others from the Dominion being sent to the Guide Headquarters in London for bomb victims; made donations to the Red Cross, the Queen's Fund and the "Milk for Britain" fund as well as to the parcel fund sponsored by the ladies of the Coleman Legion; also knitted 204 squares for an Afghan for British parcel. In the Fall we sent a number of stuffed toys to London in answer to a request from Imperial headquarters, and this Spring we sent thirty-six packages of seeds to the Boy Scout campaign. At Christmas we had our party, and instead of exchanging gifts, presented a flower to each mother. In May we held our annual cookie sale and sold 588 packages of cookies, on which we are allowed $45.00, that amount being $1.00 on every dozen packages, the usual commission.

Last Fall we started out without any money in the treasury. This proved very inconvenient, and we planned to hold a candy sale. However, the sugar ration put a stop to that, so an appeal was made to the mothers with the result that we were able to collect $7.00 which was given to the St. Alban's Guild in appreciation of the use of the hall.

Eliminate Waste

Says Cloth Saved Is Enough To Provide Uniforms For Services

R. F. Chisholm, administrator of wholesale trade of the wartime prices and trade board, told a Vancouver luncheon meeting that restriction on men's clothing would save enough material to provide a uniform for every man in the Canadian armed services and elimination of little used lines by plumbing manufacturers will release enough steel to produce 250 medium tanks.

"At the moment, we all acknowledge that we are faced with a declining standard of living," he said. "But what we call a lower standard of living may very well be a safer standard of living if we learn to eliminate waste."

The bombs were dropped when the submarine was attacked by depth charges and aircraft after it had sunk a heavily escorted supply ship.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 21

THE TASK COMMITTED TO THE DISCIPLES

Golden text: Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. Mark 16:15. Lesson: Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:49-53. Devotional reading: Isaiah 49:1-6.

Explanations and Comments. Matthew's Report of The Great Commission, Matthew 28:16-20. The eleven disciples (the successor of Judas had not yet been chosen) went to the mountain in Galilee where Jesus had appointed a meeting. It was a well-known meeting place, and there Jesus came to them—the appearance which probably is to be identified with the one mentioned by Paul in I Cor 15:6, where he was seen "by about five hundred at once." When Jesus appeared in their midst some recognized him and worshiped him; others (not the eleven) doubted. Throughout his early life, and now here also after these many centuries, Jesus has been a divider of men.

"All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth"; in these words Jesus asserted his right to command. The future of his kingdom was his supreme concern, and he issued his royal order: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you." "To the people of his time the audacity of the command must have sounded like insanity. It so seems to some in our day. In the light of reason the command was ludicrous. In the light of history it is sublime" (Thomas J. Villiers).

"And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." May these words become to us not only a belief but an experience.

"I need thy presence every passing hour; What but thy grace can toll the tempest's power? Who like thyself my Guide and Stay can be? Through cloud and sunshine, O abide with me!"

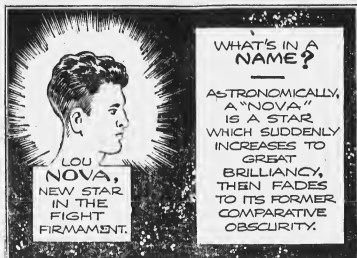

The missionary John Paton, has testified to the felt presence of the Lord, in the midst of his hard and lonely labors in the New Hebrides. Speaking of a time of great trial, he said: "Nothing else than the abiding presence and power of my dear Lord and Savior could have prevented me from losing my reason and perishing miserably. His words, 'Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world,' became to me so real that it would not have startled me to see him as Stephen did, gazing down upon the scene."

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CHILD WELFARE

A communication received from Great Britain at the Health League of Canada's headquarters here casts an interesting sidelight on the highly organized system of child welfare in Great Britain compared to official neglect in Canada, especially in Canadian industrial areas where children of women war workers are allowed to roam at will without suitable creche or nursery accommodation.

Dr. Gordon Bates, general director, said in commenting on the measures taken in England for care of children. "Cars form mobile units for infant welfare, each equipped with everything from a cook stove to an infant's layette and complete accouchement equipment. These are known as 'Nannie I'—Nannie II is a maternity ward equipped for emergency feeding of mothers and infants. Nannie III is equipped with spare supplies of all sorts. Personnel of the units are three state registered nurses (one a midwife) and five nurses who have been trained in infant welfare, and a male orderly—mechanic.

"When a unit goes into operation a tent-annex provides ward accommodation and is fitted up with portable cots and beds.

"During lulls in bombing attacks the unit visits outlying villages which have not as good clinical services as larger centres. Under supervision of the regional office of health, the nurses make house to house visits, set up war nurseries for evacuated children and help create new day nurseries. Use of these units is expected to be widely extended, giving maternity and infant service to outlying industrial and rural districts. The first units are a gift to the nation from a well known English firm of chemists."

Defender Of Malta

General Dobbie Has Nothing But Praise For The People

General Sir William Dobbie has been meeting the British press, and the pressmen have been greatly taken with him. They do not usually rise at the end of these conferences, as they did the other day, reports the Manchester Guardian, and get one of their number to say they have felt it a great honor to meet their visitor. Something has moved newspaper men when they become articulate in this way. Sir William must be one of the mildest men who ever wore a general's uniform. He spoke quickly, after reflection, rubbing the palms of his hands together, very much like the family doctor prescribing treatment. One felt that this calm, un-demonstrative man, who has been the soul of the defence of Malta, should be quickly introduced to whatever general it is that believes in inculcating "dash" as the way to make his talk was mostly about the people of Malta, and it was all praise of them. He spoke no syllable about his own part. And the praise was from the heart. "More British than the King, more Catholic than the Pope." "That," said General Dobbie, "is how the people of Malta have been described. Their love of the British Empire is simply intense."

A Kentucky country editor, quoted in the Louisville Times, champions crisp-crust strawberry shortcake and denounces "the soggy mixture of poundcake" so often offered instead. ANNE TEDLOCK BROOKS

CHAPTER XXVI.

Ransome thought he would never reach the junction on the highway where the Duck Point Rd. joined it. It was almost noon and the sun shone warmly down upon them.

The Duck Point Rd. was seldom travelled excepting for the tenants of a number of small farms that lay scattered about. It was surprising that any one could have landed a plane there and it had not been noticed, Ransome thought.

He found the mail box marked with the name of the man who had called him, and turned the car in the narrow road winding between mossy, laden trees. Bird dogs and geese made great confusion as he stopped at the little front porch of the house. A tall, lanky man got up slowly from the stone steps.

"Reckon you're the one I talked to about the plane?"

"Yes," said Ransome, opening the car door. "This is Mr. Randolph, the girl's father, Mr. Sheridan, a lawyer friend, Mr. Rawson."

The stranger looked them over silently and then said, "Howdy." He turned back to Ransome.

"Can you take us to the field right now?"

"I'll get in with ye, and we can drive up to it. Jes' down the road a piece."

The field where they stopped had been planted in broom corn, and had been recently cut, and most of the corn turned under in. In one far corner they found marsh grass growing, and it seemed to be here the plane had been kept.

The brown grass was crushed down in a great sweeping path, and the men knew that it had happened when the plane used it as a runway. "Whoever landed that plane must have known something about the place. There must have been a car waiting, and they must have tested this marsh grass to make sure that it wasn't too wet!"

Dick Sheridan nodded. "You're right about that. No one could have just taken a chance on a thing like this unless it was a forced landing."

"The plane must have circled here, to take off into the wind," Ransome indicated a wide sweeping place in the crushed grass. Had Tamar been in that plane when it took off? Had the plane been left there to carry away the gold bars, taken from the armored truck?

If there could only be some evidence! He looked hopefully about the place where he thought the plane must have stood. Car tracks were plainly visible. He exclaimed at the number. "Look! There's been more than one car here!" The tire tracks were of a different design in the soft dirt.

"We had a light rain night before last," said Rawson. "Jes' nough to lay the dust. So they must be new tracks."

Dick threw open his arms in a hopeless gesture. "Chances are we're on a dead-end trail. This probably doesn't mean a thing."

"Well, I was fabled to hear a plane out here in my own field," said Rawson. "It jes' ain't natchal. No one else ever landed out here. I walked over, but there's nothing I could do."

"No sign of a car?"

"No. I thought I heard one go by jes' fore I turned off our lane to go into the field, but I was walkin' and the bushes grow so high I couldn't see."

"Let's get to a telephone. I want to call Taylor and see if he can check for transient planes at the airports around. I think there's some connection, even if you don't, Dick," he said stubbornly. But he knew that he was clutching at faint hope. He couldn't give up; any clue must be traced until he was satisfied that it had nothing to do with the disappearance of Tamar.

Rawson told them the plane gained altitude so rapidly that he had no chance to see the size or kind. "But, phew! I don't know enough about planes. I jes' knowed that was what it was. I ain't ever seed very many."

They would have to go to a nearby general store to call the FBI man, and started to get into the car. Suddenly Ransome's eyes caught the glint of something in the grass. He picked it up and turned it over in his hand. It was a circle of yellow gold that Tamar often wore to thrust her scarf through. Having been stepped upon, it was bent almost double.

Ransome in that moment felt the onrush of an anger that he had never experienced before. His fingers gripped the ring until it cut through and the red blood dripped down his hand.

Knox Randolph touched Ransome's arm. He took the gold ring from his own lifeless fingers. "Tamar's," he said through contorted lips.

As they rushed to the general store Ransome thought of the impossibility of finding Tamar immediately. Where could they look?

Ransome talked with Taylor and then the men headed back for Shadwell. Perhaps some message had come for Randolph by this time. If they could only get in contact with them. No matter the ransom demand, Randolph had known that he would get the money together.

State troopers were at the junction when they turned into it. They stopped and showed identification cards. Two men went back to the field where the plane had been to guard it. "A network has been thrown up, Mr. Randolph. All highways are being patrolled. Word just came to us that the driver of the truck has been found."

"He didn't see the car that carried away the gold?" Ransome asked.

"No. No further clues. Shadwell lay silent in the early afternoon sun. Even the noisy ruins which usually haunted the lane were absent today.

Ransome rang the bell as he hurried in. "Phoebe! Any messages?" Phoebe stopped on the threshold aghast. "What had happened to Miss Ransome?" "No, sub, Miss Ransome, dey ain't none come. Dat BIF man done call."

"Taylor?"

"Yassuh. He say yo' get in teeh instantaneous." She plucked the telephone out of its cradle and handed it to him.

Taylor told Ransome that the armored truck driver stumbled into a fling station at daybreak, about 25 miles out of Tahnahneka.

"I'll be in your office right away. I want to see him."

Once more Ransome stepped into the car and started it.

"Wait, Ransome," said Knox. "I'll sit here by the telephone. Something might come in and maybe they wouldn't let any one take the message."

Ransome saw the trembling of his lips and knew that Tamar's father was a broken old man today.

The truck driver was of middle age. He looked pale and as though he had spent a sleepless night. His bloodshot eyes looked steadily into Ransome's as he told his story.

"I was detained at the mine. Purposely, of course, I see now. But at the time I thought nothing of it, excepting that it would make me late getting back. When I reached the foot of the hill leading to the junction, I was going pretty fast. Without warning, the wheels dropped off into the ditch that had been dug and covered over. Like an elephant trap. I knew immediately what had happened, so I just sat there, waiting for their first move."

Ransome asked impatiently, "And what was it?"

"A voice called to me. There's a bomb under you that will go off in exactly three minutes! Get out with your arms over your head. Take your choice, Bud, the gold for us or hell for you! I thought they were bluffing, and picked up my gun."

The man whitened. "I don't want you to think I was weak, but have you ever thought that you were going to be blown into little bits?"

"No, it must be most uncomfortable," Ransome said soothingly.

"I watched my second hand on my wrist watch. I never saw anything go around so fast. Well—I opened the door and crawled out just as they made ready to light the bomb."

"And then?"

"Some one struck me and I went out like a light. When I came to, I was by myself sitting in the ditch, propped up on a log. It was cold and I could hear water dripping. It wasn't long until I could see the sky was lightening, and pretty soon I could see that I wasn't far from a road. I hit the filling station soon after and got a ride into Tahnahneka."

"Can you find the place again?"

"Yes, easily. I marked it with stones. And . . ."

The sharp ring of the telephone interrupted. Taylor answered it. "It's Knox Randolph, he says to come at once. He's had a message."

SELECTED RECIPES

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

With hot weather on the way, it's handy to have a recipe for home-made rolls that can be mixed up and stored in the refrigerator until needed. Happily, these bran beauties take but 15 minutes baking. The recipe goes like this:

All-Brain Refrigerator Rolls
1 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup All-Brain
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup boiling water
2 eggs
2 cakes compressed yeast
1 cup lukewarm water
6 1/2 cups flour, or more

Put shortening, sugar, All-Brain and salt in large mixing bowl, add boiling water, stirring until shortening is melted. Let stand until mixture is lukewarm. Add well-beaten eggs and yeast softened in lukewarm water. Add one-half the flour and beat until batter is smooth. Add remaining flour and beat well. Cover bowl closely and place in refrigerator over night or until ready to use. Form balls of dough to fill greased muffin pans about half full. Let rise in a warm place about two hours or until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes.

Yield: 3 1/2 dozen rolls (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Heroism Of Sailors

CBC Correspondent Tells About Sinking Of British Battleships

For the three days following his rescue from the Repulse sinking, CBC correspondent Cecil Brown was so busy writing and broadcasting that he did not have time to shave or to wash off the oil in which he had been immersed for hours. "But throughout that time," he says in his story of the Prince of Wales and Repulse disaster in Liberty magazine, "through the sickness from the oil, the pounding in my ears, and the burning in my eyes, one constant thought kept a choke in my throat. It was the vivid saddening, proud memory of heroism, determination, stamina, and the way brave men die that more than fulfilled Nelson's great words to his men of the British Navy: 'England expects every man to do his duty!'"

The battle between the great ships and the Japanese lasted for slightly more than an hour, says Brown in the article, and the first Japanese bomb, dropped from 12,000 feet, smashed the catapult deck of the Repulse. Heroism among the men was a commonplace. A twenty-year-old marine, Morris Graney, got Brown onto a crowded raft after he had first saved himself by climbing onto a small table. "Graney wore only shorts and his thick chest was covered with oil. His brown hair streaked over his forehead and into his eyes. I think the sight of Graney helped many a man. He was almost six feet tall, husky, almost barrel-chested. Above a square jaw he had a slim, delicate mustache and blue, kind, shy eyes. In all the time I saw Graney I saw only one definable emotion expressed in those eyes. That was amusement."

Admiral Tom Phillips arrived in Singapore just in time to take the Prince of Wales and Repulse out on their first and last engagement in the Far East. Captain Leach commanded the Wales, and writes Brown, "Phillips and Leach were last seen standing on the bridge of the Wales, the water rising up to meet them, meeting, and then covering them."

Have Sticky Job

British Workers Busy Salvaging Sugar From Wrecked Warehouse

Of the total quantity of foodstuffs damaged in this country by air raids up to the end of last year nearly three-quarters has been saved. One of the best examples of salvage is a very large stock of sugar. The sheds in which the sugar was stored were hit by enemy action and burned to the ground. The sugar was in the basement. "It is probably the stickiest job that men could be put to," said a Ministry representative. "When it rains a certain amount of sugar is immediately converted into treacle. Nevertheless the work is going on and when the treacle or sugar is refined extremely little of it has to be discarded." London Times.

Prehistoric Fly-Paper

Fossilized Resin Known As Amber Contains Remains Of Insects

Once upon a time, in a prehistoric forest, a myriad of insects hummed and crawled about as insects do today. Some of them got trapped in the gummy resin exuding from certain trees. They struggled and buzzed but the substance engulfed them. Time marched on. Today, on the shores of the Baltic and elsewhere, fossilized resin, known as amber, is found. Specimens of amber in the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto disclose the perfectly preserved remains of the insects which hummed in a prehistoric forest.

ON SALE EVERYWHERE IN CANADA

The CBC's Overseas Unit is made up of a small group of men from the Programme and Engineering Division of the Corporation who play an important part in keeping the thousands of men and women serving in Britain in close association with their families and friends in Canada.

From many points in England this mobile unit arranges, records and presents for listeners in Canada broadcasts describing the life and activities of the soldiers, sailors, airmen, nursing sisters and civilian workers. Of their many duties perhaps one of prime concern and importance to Canadians at home is the arranging of the weekly Troop Broadcasts of personal greetings when men and women step up to the microphone somewhere in England to send their own messages home to Canada. These messages reach Canada in the form of recorded discs or are received direct from Overseas by the CBC's Ottawa shortwave receiving station and then recorded. In the case of messages recorded in England, the name of the men and women who have taken part in the programme are wirelessly to Ottawa and are subsequently checked against the recording when it arrives. In the latter case the record is played over and the names of those who have taken part in the broadcast are listed. It is then that the names of the participants are released to the Canadian Press to appear in the newspapers several days before the broadcast is to take place. For the benefit of rural listeners who may not have the opportunity of seeing the published lists the names of the speakers are broadcast, as soon as possible after they are received, immediately following the News Analysis at 6:30 p.m. C.D.T. (5:30 p.m. M.D.T.), over Station CBK Watrous (540 Kc.). It will be understood why there is sometimes an unavoidable delay of several weeks between the time of the broadcast or recording is made in Britain and when it is heard on the Canadian networks.

Save Old Rags

They Are Desperately Needed For War Purposes

Every woman in every home has a hundred opportunities daily to be a vital cog in the war machine. For instance, the Director of Salvage at Ottawa points to rags. They're desperately needed for war—wrapping delicately milled parts for airplane wipers on aerodromes; in army workshops, and aboard Canadian ships. Homes are the greatest sources of supply.

In appealing for rags, as for other materials, the Salvage Director says, "Do the job carefully and thoroughly so the material can be moved to the 'front line' fast."

Save white woollens, colored woollens; coatings and suitings; and cottons. Wrap each class in separate parcels, and, please, don't put clean and soiled rags together. Put old carpets and scrap sackings in separate containers.

Pack in cartons or old sacks and get them to your local salvage organization, or direct to a dealer in your community right away.

"NERVES" CAN BE CHANGED INTO ASSETS

Energy Needs Proper Direction

Squabbles in public—no wonder John and Mary can't keep friends. They get on each other's nerves and "blow up" at the most inopportune times. Yet they could be happy together, a charming pair—if they would learn to use their nervous energies constructively.

Instead, Mary frets over every trifle. John avoids his hand, the laundry's late. The least thing upsets her emotionally.

What Mary needs is an absorbing interest in her life. If she'd take over the leadership of the girls' club in her neighborhood she'd soon forget petty annoyances—become cheerful, vital, a pleasant companion.

"Speed-up" is John's middle name. It's rush to work, rush through lunch panes each. That makes—as he bitterly points out—the least provocation. Learn to let down a little, John. Get enough sleep. Take time to enjoy.

You'll do a better job, be a better "pal" if you and Mary would get out in the air, play games and take walks!

In our 32-page booklet a famous physician tells ways to control "nerves" to achieve serenity and vitality. Explains psychological causes of "nerves," also how to diet and exercise to gain radiant health.

Feeding Raw Garbage To Pigs Insects Park With Disease

Canada has a regulation which insists that pigs must not be fed raw garbage. There is no such regulation in the United States. The latter country has about 17 per cent. of its population infected with trichinosis, a disease which results from the eating of pork containing live worms. These were facts adduced in a joint paper by Dr. T. W. M. Cameron and Dr. M. J. Miller delivered before the medical section of the Royal Society of Canada at Toronto.

An Imposing Total

Cleaning Windows On One Manchester House Is Some Job

The abode of a neighbor of mine, writes a Manchester Guardian correspondent, has 26 downstairs windows and 22 upstairs ones. They average 22 small diamond or square panes each. That makes—as he bitterly points out—the nearly consecutive total of 3,456 panes to be cleaned. Each pane has four corners. That makes 13,824 nice little corners to be desmudged periodically. But, alas! a window has two sides. So, outside and in, that quite Old World-looking house has nearly 28,000 pane-corners to be tackled.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Warm Weather Is Needed

Plenty of moisture throughout southern Alberta gives the crops a good start, though it has been too cool for comfort. Though conditions from a farming standpoint are good at present, a spell of very hot weather can rapidly cancel the benefits of the early rains, so that it is not wise to bank too much on bumper crops so early in the growing season. Grain growing has many hazards to face, and even though the price of grain has been raised to a level more in keeping with production costs, a poor yield leaves the farmer with a short income. Industrial workers fare better, and with war's demands steady employment will continue. The coal mining industry of the Crows Nest Pass towns is working to capacity, and big developments are being made at Fernie to meet increased demands for coal for railway purposes. The movement of freight over this division of the C.P.R. clearly demonstrates the increased activity which war has brought to all lines of industry, for while some, such as automobile, refrigerator and radio manufacturing plants have been closed, workers so released are being employed in essential war industries. Unfortunately the farmer is not in such a favored position, for in addition to weather hazards he is handicapped by shortage of farm labor. Yet food is essential for the successful carrying on of the war, in fact a nation going short of food would soon lose its stamina and ability to carry on.

Heavy Submarine Toll by Enemy

The tide of war goes back and forth, and the United Nations still suffer setbacks, the most serious being the toll taken by enemy submarines on the Atlantic coasts of the North and South American continents. It requires superhuman effort to replace these losses, besides the patrolling of the sea lanes to destroy the raiders. They have a wide area in which to work and comparatively few warships are available to combat them. Valuable supplies necessary for carrying on the war and for feeding the civilian population are being destroyed, and this is in a measure the cause of rationing which will likely impose more restrictions than at present in force.

Army Week to Aid Recruiting

Evidently intended to popularize the army and to encourage recruiting, "Army Week" is the newest propaganda effort originated by someone in Ottawa. We admire the boys who join the Army, equally as much as we do those who join the Navy and the Air Force. But these efforts to encourage recruiting raise the question in people's minds, why should it be necessary when the government has the power to draft men for the fighting forces? Voluntary enlistment is the ideal thing, and the young men who have the spirit to volunteer need little or no urging. Those who are not so willing to enlist will hardly be influenced by "Army Week." The results of recruiting tours of armored units were disappointing. If the country needs the men, the government has the power to draft them. Political strategy is too much to the fore in Premier King's actions. As leader of the government, the lion's share of the responsibility rests on him.

Summer Sports and Stampedes

July in Alberta is the time for those annual gatherings which bring people together to celebrate. The most important of course is the Calgary Stampede. Next to that in importance locally are Macleod Stampede and Beaver Mines, south of Burmis. Brocket also has a stampede. Many other southern towns, including Claresholm, Cardston, Raymond, and others, have similar gatherings. Shows in which men, horses and cattle play a leading part are more popular in Alberta than in any other part of Canada, the reason being that this province was originally a wide-open ranching country. The days of the round-ups still linger in people's minds, and the Stampedes or Rodeos satisfy the desire to see the spirit of the early days kept alive.

Confidence Must be Restored

Breakdown of refunding negotiations between the provincial government and the bondholders of Alberta securities is to be regretted. The province is willing to pay 3½ per cent. on its long overdue indebtedness, but the bondholders' representatives want 4 per cent. The credit of the entire province suffers from the debt repudiation and interest cutting policy of Premier Aberhart's government, and a fair deal will have to be made with creditors before Alberta's name will be honored among those who may have funds to invest. No sensible person would invest money in a province which cuts its contractual interest rate or talks of interest free loans. Would the premier or his advisors loan their money without receiving interest? Decidedly not!

From Pincher Creek Echo—"Wasting public money on recruiting should come to an end now. This town and district has been cleaned out of volunteers."

From Brooks Bulletin—"The lilac should be grown more widely in Alberta. It will do well in windbreaks and adds beauty to the home surroundings. It requires little care and will come through the toughest winter in thriving condition."

ALL METAL TUBES MUST BE RETURNED TO RETAIL STORES

Conserving tin, vital to Canada's war effort, the Dominion Government has made it illegal for any citizen to throw away used collapsible metal tubes and have ordered citizens to turn in all used tubes available at the earliest possible moment.

All tubes which have contained tooth paste, shaving cream, toilet accessories, must be turned in to drug, cigar, general or departmental stores. These tubes contain tin which is vital to the war effort and 250 such tubes will provide all the tin necessary in equipping one of Canada's modern bombing planes.

Co-operating with the Government, Coleman business houses have established receptacles in their stores into which the used tubes may be dropped.

April 22/42.

Bob. Borden Writes
From England:

Dear Tommy: Owing to the fact that I transferred from one regiment to another, then to another part of the country, then to another country, then to another unit, I just got the B.E.S.L. Christmas card a few days ago. However, better late than never, and I should like to thank you very much for remembering me. It is awfully nice to hear from the Old Home town—as you, of course, will appreciate.

Haven't heard much about Coleman since I left. I am such a poor correspondent that I hardly ever write a letter at all, and that does not help matters out very much.

Got myself married since I left town, and am now the perfect husband, or something!

We had a kind of miserable winter here as far as I was concerned. The cold is so damp that it goes through a man like a knife through cheese. Things are much nicer now though, and the weather is clear enough for the Air Force to get in a little of their dirty work.

I haven't run into anyone from Coleman over on this side yet. Partly, of course, because I haven't been around much, but some of these days I hope to get around and see some of the people. Will close now, send best regards to all, and thanks again for the card.

Bob. Borden.

A letter was received from Spr. E. R. Kennedy, at present at Gibraltar. He had received his December and January cigarettes in the same mail. He had been in hospital for nine weeks and had been boarded back to England. At time of writing he was patiently waiting for the boat to arrive at the British fortress so that he might get back to England. He sends his regards to all.

Two acknowledgment cards were received from W. S. Vollendorf. In one he stated he had spent five days in London and then left for Aberdeen where he had a much better time.

George Burtnik, and G. H. Stephens also sent acknowledgment cards regarding receipts of cigarettes.

FOR HOLIDAY MAKERS

With the summer holiday season upon us, and travel by automobile limited, Mr. Walter S. Campbell, Regional representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, points out that rentals of summer cottages must not be greater than those charged during similar months of last season. Renters who would offer to pay more are as liable for a breach of the rental regulations as landlords who would charge more. Cost of meals, hotel accommodation, etc., must not exceed last summer's prices.

Operators of summer hotels and boarding houses are under the same obligation as city operators—to post in each room a printed statement showing the maximum rental for the room, for one or more persons, with or without board.

APPLICATION CARDS FOR COUPON RATIONING OF SUGAR

*will be mailed next week
to every Household in Canada*

Canadians will be required to register so that ration cards, good for the 10 week period, commencing July 1st, may be issued immediately. At the end of that period a coupon ration book, good for six months, will be issued.

HOW TO REGISTER

Residents in Urban Areas not served by Letter Carrier, and Residents in Rural Areas

Application cards will be distributed to all households through the post offices on or before Tuesday, June 23rd. Additional cards will also be delivered for every person resident in the household, who bears a different last name from the head of the household. If needed, extra cards may be secured from local post offices.

These application cards should be filled out immediately and dropped in the nearest mail box or post office. A pamphlet giving complete instructions will be delivered with each card. As soon as your name is duly registered at headquarters, ration cards, good for a ten-week period, will be mailed to you—one ration card for each person in your home. These will be for sugar only.

Coupon Rationing for Sugar Becomes Effective July 1st

Beginning July 1st, no one will be permitted to buy sugar for regular domestic use without a ration coupon.

Prompt co-operation on the part of the public in filling out and returning their application cards is necessary to ensure return of the ration coupon card in time to purchase sugar on or after the above date.

Remember—the amount of sugar allowed each individual under the new coupon rationing plan will be exactly the same as allowed at present—1 pound per person per week.

Publicity For Canada

FOR SOME TIME in has been felt by many Canadians that too little is known about Canada in other lands. This has been notable, especially in England and the United States, where the Canadian visitor has on occasion encountered what is to him an amazing and appalling lack of knowledge about our country. In the past we have met this situation with tolerance and some amusement, but there has always been, too, the suggestion of a slight to our national pride. It has been realized, however, that this lack of knowledge about Canada by many who live beyond her borders, is not due to lack of interest on their part, but to our failure to publicize our country.

In recent months this question has been considered more seriously than at any time, because of a misapprehension that has sprung up in the United States regarding Canada's war effort. Many American news writers who are apprised of both sides of the situation have been urging Canadians to increase their organization for publicity in the States. Many Canadian newspapers have likewise been stressing the need for a wider service for information below the border. To deal with the problem the Dominion government recently appointed Mr. Charles Vining, a Montreal newspaper man, to make a survey of Canadian publicity in the United States and to report to the government on his findings. Doubtless this will result in an expansion of our news services in the United States, and in the promotion of a better understanding there of what Canada is doing in the present world struggle.

Canada is still a young nation. We have a magnificent country rich in natural resources and scenic beauties. Many of our resources are developed and are the sources of large and modern industrial enterprises. Our agriculture is on a scale sufficient to supply our own needs and those of many other parts of the world. At present both our industry and agriculture are playing an enormous part in sustaining England in these critical times. Because we are still a young nation we have not yet found a strong means of national expression. We have few national newspapers or magazines with a large international circulation. In the years following the war there will be great problems to be settled and Canada will be represented at the council tables with the other United Nations. It is strongly felt by many thoughtful Canadians that before that time we must not only fully realize our importance as a nation, but spread that knowledge through the nations at whose sides we are fighting.

Commando Raids

Vice-Admiral Lord Mountbatten Discloses Some Inside History
How Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the German Afrika Korps, escaped a commando raid but lost his entire general staff was told by the dark-haired commander of the fabulous commandos, Vice-Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

It happened the night before the British offensive in the last Libyan campaign. A commando party worked its way over the desert, behind the German lines, until it came to Rommel's base.

The place was captured easily and everyone inside killed or captured but Rommel was not there he was in Rome attending a birthday celebration.

Lord Louis told how two young British commando officers calmly stood on the forecastle head of the explosive-laden destroyer Campbellton in St. Nazaire harbor, blantly assuring 50 to 100 German technical experts that all was well until the ship blew up and carried everyone to death. The raid on St. Nazaire was made March 28.

"Those two boys stayed there and never batted an eye," said their commander. "They had guts."

The youthful commander of the commandos—he is only 43 but he has seen much naval service in this war and the last one stressed the teamwork of his combined force of sailors, soldiers, airmen and marines. It is becoming a regular Allied force because American officers now are attached to his staff and four commandos are coming to the United States for instructional purposes.

Wear Caps Now

Bank Messengers In Britain Have Discarded Tall Silk Hat
The tall silk hat, traditional headgear of Britain's bank messengers, is the latest victim of war conditions. An announcement said the topper is being exchanged for "a plebeian, but more serviceable cap."

"Bank messengers carry steel helmets, and if there should be need to use them it would be rather difficult to pack a topper away," an official of Lloyd's Bank explained. "Then there's the matter of economizing in the use of materials."

Paper Salvage

Much Time Is Lost Through Improper Methods Of Preparation
Headache and loss of time for salvage collectors are caused by improper preparation of newspapers and magazines by householders.

Newspapers should be kept clean and flat and tied in firm bundles of about 50 pounds each. Magazines and books should be tied in bundles of about 75 pounds each. Use strong twine and tie both lengthwise and across. Corrugated boxes should be flattened out and tied in firm bundles of about 50 pounds. Waste paper such as envelopes, writing paper, crumpled papers of all kinds and ordinary cardboard boxes should be packed in old bags or in large corrugated boxes. Do not include cellophane, wax paper, glassine, carbon paper or tax paper. These have no value and take time for sorters to remove.

The Minneapolis Star-Journal quotes the story of a contemporary about the lad who has just won his commission in the army. He is of impressive height and breadth, even in civilian clothes. The other day in his new uniform, he went over to see his grandmother. His belt was polished, his shoulder insignia bright, his service ribbons gay, his regimental markings vivid, his buttons shiny. His grandmother looked him up and down in awed silence for a moment, then remarked, "My goodness, Charlie I'm glad you are on our side!"

Factory Made Cricket Bats But Now Makes Rifle Stocks

A North of England factory which used to make cricket bats has now turned over to producing bat and stocks for Tommy guns and rifles, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal.

It occurred to its manager when war broke out that his machines could be adapted for making the wooden "furniture" of guns. The suggestion was pool-pooled at first, but he won the day and got his contract.

Today the machines which three years ago were turning out cricket bats are shaping four slabs of wood into four rifle butts in as many minutes. Other machines complete the 92 processes which are necessary before the bat and stocks go into the ammonia chamber to mellow. They are then treated with linseed oil.

The craftsman who made the cricket bats maintain that today, out of a pile of other rifles, a seasoned veteran will still choose their work for its "feel."

Ownership Transferred

Britain Has Given Island Of Patos To Venezuela
Patos (Spanish for ducks) Island, a 170-acre dot in the Caribbean, three miles off Venezuela, used to be one of the tiniest bits of the British Empire. The Foreign Office kept a retired Negro policeman from nearby Trinidad there as caretaker. All he had to do was run up the Union Jack daily. His family and his goats were the sole inhabitants. There weren't even ducks.

Britain originally claimed the islet under the 1802 Treaty of Amiens which gave it Trinidad. But since 1904 Venezuela has disputed its ownership, and the squabble threatened the otherwise friendly relations between the nations.

On May 21 Britain did the noble thing. King George signed a bill ceding Patos to Venezuela free of charge. Newsweek.

The Individual Citizen's Army A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army. By Alan Maurice Irwin

Well, we got it at last! A touch of total war in our own front yard! Freighters torpedoed in the St. Lawrence! I know the news is stale, but since I know that broad estuary as well as most of us know Main Street or Broadway you might be interested in a few remarks on the subject.

Naturally, since the question of security enters into it, I shall not attempt to speculate as to where the attacks took place although, judging by the hour at which the attacks were made and the reported time of the landings of survivors at various little ports it is not too hard for an ex-shipping reporter to figure out within fifty miles or so.

What is most important, now that the sneaking underwater hounds have at last gathered their courage to the point of risking their lives in confined waters, is the steps to be taken by members of the Individual Citizen's Army.

There is no need to worry about the steps that are being taken by the Canadian Navy. It was immediately announced that long-prepared plans were at once put into effect.

Remember a few days after the little yellow apes attacked Pearl Harbour? They shelled the California coast. That was done from a submarine.

It can happen here!

Not beyond the bounds of possibility are landings at obscure spots in the dead of night for water and food or diesel oil.

That is why a recruiting campaign is going on for the Reserve Army. Married men in the acceptable age group and married and single men, whose categories unite them for overseas service are needed to form a "Home Guard." There may be work for a home guard much sooner than we completely anticipate.

There are long miles of shore-line on both sides of the estuary in which scattered farm houses are the only signs of habitation. But the men and women who live in these picturesque white houses are of a sturdy stock that stems back to the hardy Frenchmen who wrested Canada from the defences of nature and who ally defended their territory against savages who would be appalled at the savagery displayed today by the "kultured" Nazis.

Even if there are submarines in the St. Lawrence we cannot all play the role of Madeleine de Vercheres, we cannot all join the Reserve Army, but we can all play our parts by doing everything possible in our daily lives to conserve every resource for wartime production.

From the little port that harbours the pilot tender to its mouth the mighty St. Lawrence River takes on almost the proportions of an inland sea. Heavily wooded country abounding with wild life backs the settled fringes along the shores. It is tempting country to brutalized men who have been cooped up for weeks in the fetid atmosphere of a submarine.

Wild life, moose, deer, smaller game, are very tempting to men who have been living on German naval rations. They may be tempted to try a little hunting. And it may be too bad for them. Have you ever faced a conscientious Game Warden?

The farmers of the lower St. Lawrence are an amphibious people equally at home between the hands of a plough or a pair of oars, in a gasoline tractor or a fishing launch capable of riding the heavy seas for which the great river is noted. They will give a good account of themselves if they get the chance.

They are used to making a living the hard way in a year round contest with the elements and will be just as equal to protecting that living when the occasion arises.

But they won't be able to do it alone! They will need, and must have, every other Canadian standing behind them. They will need the Royal Canadian Navy—which so many of their sons have joined. And that Navy needs heavy clothes, warm food, rubber boots, depth charges, ammunition.

You've guessed it! That's where the Individual Citizen's Army enters the picture again.

To give the Navy its woollen sweaters, its heavy socks to wear under sea-boots, its hot, cocoa-sweetened for energy—its depth charges, we

HEAVY LOSSES SUSTAINED BY JAPS IN RECENT SEA BATTLES IN BOTH SHIPS AND PERSONNEL

Pearl Harbor. — Probably eight Japanese aircraft carriers were sunk or so badly damaged in the Midway and Coral Sea battles that they will be unfit for early action, communique and reports of battle participants show.

In most cases the decks of the carriers were filled with aircraft indicating their losses in planes runs well into the hundreds.

Personnel losses to the Japanese in these two battles were tremendous. While no official reports have been made on personnel casualties, unofficial estimates from authoritative sources, based on reports of eye-witnesses, are that 5,000 Japanese were killed in the Coral Sea and 10,000 more lost their lives in the Midway battle.

At least six of the carriers which American torpedoes and bombs blasted out of the war either permanently or temporarily, were among Japan's best.

Communique on the Coral Sea battle reported the big carriers sunk or put out of commission were the Rikaku and the Shokaku; in the Midway action two of those destroyed were reported to be of the Kaga or Akagi class, huge 30,000-ton craft, and the other two were modern 20,000-ton carriers.

March 18 in the south Pacific 20 Japanese warships were reported sunk or damaged. The Tsubaki and the Coral Sea on May 7 and 8, 15 more were reported sunk and damaged. Midway fighting added at least another score to the list.

This makes a grand total of at least 67 ships knocked out of Japanese fleets or badly crippled.

IN AFRICAN RAID

Portable Explosive Magazine Was Among Things Found On Farm. — A Johannesburg detective testified at a high treason hearing that a "portable explosive magazine" was found on a farm occupied by one of 48 persons accused of being members of an illegal storm troopers' organization.

The witness described the magazine as containing explosives, and added that a tin of gelignite was buried under a tree on the farm.

The farmhouse, he testified, was stocked with rations, radio parts, ammunition and field telephones, and several pistols.

AIDED IN RESCUE

Victoria. — A Canadian naval vessel participated in the rescue of the crew of a United States merchant ship torpedoed off the Washington coast, naval authorities at nearby Esquimalt announced. The Canadian vessel picked up 25 men from the sunken ship.

UNITED STATES PLANS FOR THE ALLOCATION OF FOOD SUPPLIES FOR THE ALLIED WAR EFFORT

Washington. — Agriculture Secretary Wickard called the government's new wartime food committee together for its first meeting, to hear an optimistic report on production prospects in U.S. and to make a survey of prospective requirements for military, lend-lease and civilian needs.

The nine-member committee was created by the war production board to control the production, importation and allocation of all food supplies in U.S. in the interest of the Allied war effort.

Wickard planned to lay before the committee a report that agricultural production prospects have rarely been better at this season of the year. The federal crop reporting board said that if the weather continues favorable, previous records of farm production may be considerably exceeded.

This picture of American prospects was in sharp contrast with conditions in German-controlled Europe. Reports received by Wickard through state department and other channels indicate that continental Europe faces one of its darkest food-production seasons in years, due to an unusually severe winter that killed large acreages of winter grain crops, a late dry spring, and shortages of labor, fertilizer, seeds, farm power and equipment.

NATIONAL PROJECTS

Might Amend The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act

Ottawa. — The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act of 1935 amended and extended, could be used as a basis for post-war reconstruction, J. G. Turgeon (Lib., Carleton) said before the House of Commons committee on re-establishment and reconstruction.

"This act, amended, could provide machinery to care for not only agricultural rehabilitation but for the development of national projects, using the word in its broadest sense," said Mr. Turgeon.

A reconstructed Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act could be used to provide immediately for establishment of an advisory committee in each province to advise the government on matters relating to national housing and the development of natural resources. They would also make recommendations concerning the location of industry at strategic points where industry and development of natural resources could be used together to produce employment, create revenue and encourage settlement.

"This in many cases would mean bringing industry to its source of raw material," he said.

The committee confined its discussions to domestic reconstruction problems that could be solved by Canada herself.

Mr. Turgeon, who left the chair to take part in the discussion, maintained that one of the essentials of post-war reconstruction was the maintenance of high taxation following the war.

"We have imposed this taxation for the people's war, and we must continue the taxation for the people's welfare," he said.

CAN STILL QUALIFY

Farmers Should Send In Return On Wheat Acreage Reduction

Ottawa. — Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the House of Commons that there was "no general ruling" this year requiring farmers qualifying for the wheat acreage reduction bonus to have their applications in before May 31.

But those who had changed their acreage from last year were asked to send a return to that effect.

He was replying to a question from Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (Con., Ontario) who said there was confusion in the minds of the farmers on this point.

NOT READY YET

But Britain Will Soon Send 1,000 Bombers Nightly Over Germany

Germany has been warned to prepare for air raids on a scale hitherto unknown. Air Chief Marshal A. T. Harris of the R.A.F. described as "silly" the phrase that "bombing can never win a war."

"We shall see," he said, speaking in a newsreel. "It hasn't been tried yet and Germany, more and more desperately clinging to her widespread conquests and still foolishly enough striving for more, will make a most interesting subject for the initial experiment."

"Japan can be used to provide the confirmation. But don't expect too much just yet. There is work to do first—and a great deal of it."

(Harris was erroneously quoted in a Canadian Press despatch as suggesting that 10,000 bombers a night might soon fly over Germany and that many might fly directly from America "with formidable bomb loads." Harris did not give any figure on the number of bombers that might be used and did not indicate that bombings of Germany would be made by planes flying directly from North America.)

Harris said it was not possible for the R.A.F. to put 1,000 bombers a night over Germany "whenever we please." He said that time would come—"it may not long be delayed," but it is not yet.

USED OIL CONTRACT

Ottawa. — Contracts for the bulk sale of used lubricating oil at each air and army training centre in Saskatchewan have been placed by the government salvage officer with Northern Petroleum Corp. Ltd., of Kamusack said a return tabled in the House of Commons. Price of the used oil is 8 3-10 cents a gallon, f.o.b. unit, with contracts running one year from April 15, 1941.

VAST UNDERGROUND ARMY IN EUROPE READY TO FIGHT WHEN WEST FRONT ESTABLISHED

London. — "Col. V. Britton," the mystery man who for months has organized and directed the intrepid patriot resistance to the Germans in occupied territory, said that a vast underground army was now capable of carrying out a general uprising if and when the United Nations established a second front.

"Millions of persons in occupied countries who form the 'V' army are ready to strike," he said. "They await only my call, which I hope will not be long. Europe is beginning to realize that deliverance is at hand."

Throughout Europe, he continued, in the first interview he ever has given, the "V" army is already affecting Hitler's war effort by blowing up munitions dumps, wrecking troop and supply columns and harassing occupation troops.

"Right now Germany is facing a major crisis in manpower, and production," he said, "and the 'V' army's contribution has been absolutely vital. In fact, the 'V' army created this crisis."

R.A.F. raids and Commando thrusts, and Germany's failure against the Russians, have stimulated the "V" army.

"But we do not rely on that," he said. "A more important fact is that the growing Allied aggression is increasing the 'V' army not only in occupied countries but in Germany and Italy."

"The murmur of the people is now heard in Germany. The Nazis try to drown it with their rifle squads. But it will get louder until even Hitler can hear it. And that will be the end."

Would reprisals such as those which followed the killing of "Hangman" Heydrich in Prague dampen the "V" army's enthusiasm?

"No," he replied. "They will have the opposite effect. They will only increase the determination of the 'V' army to win this war and end a regime so atrocious."

"The Nazis are going in a vicious circle. They use terror to destroy resistance because it is the only way they know. But in fact their terror only increases resistance and this the Nazis meet with more terror. So it goes. There is but one end to this frightful progression. That is the destruction of the madman who began it. Nazi terrorism is not based on strength. It is based on fear, weakness and spiritual bankruptcy. Such terrorism always fails."

Just a year ago Britton made his first appeal by radio to people in occupied countries to start getting ready for the day when they could rise and overthrow Hitler.

"They answered immediately and got down to the job of doing things which would help win the war. They have done a hundred things we have asked them."

"Today I can tell you that the potentialities of my army are great indeed, the spirit of the 'V' army is terrific. They know the United Nations will win. They know we have a plan and, because they know it, they do what we ask."

"Our 'V' army's blows will become more and more deadly, and more and more difficult for the Nazis to deal with."

"Whenever the Allies invade the continent we shall ask the 'V' army to do just what the military situation demands."

Britton said his "V" army men, working in war factories, had done such bad work, and done even that so slowly that the Germans had been forced to put army inspectors in charge.

"In the Skoda armament works in Czechoslovakia production has dropped 40 per cent," Britton said. "It is the same story throughout occupied territory."

"One thing which alarms the Germans is that a lot of bad work is being done. Sometimes it is on a big scale like the delivery of railroad freight cars. They look as if a lot of loving care had been given them. Unfortunately for the Nazis, they have a defect—they do not fit the railroad track."

"But much of the work is small scale. Nuts are left loose. Machines are not oiled. Holes are drilled out of line."

"It is growing, and the German soldiers and aviators are getting more and more suspicious of their weapons. Unexpected weakness develops in planes. Tanks are not as good as they ought to be."

"If I listed all the things the people in Europe have been doing to the Nazis for the last 12 months it would take you hundreds of newspaper columns to tell it. But I say definitely that the effect on Hitler's war effort has been great."

Britton made his last broadcast to his "V" army six weeks ago. He said then that he would not broadcast again until the time came for them to strike.

When would he broadcast again, Britton was asked.

"I cannot give you the date," he said, "but I hope it will not be long."

ACCUSES NAZI HIGH COMMAND OF POLICY OF EXTERMINATION FOR RUSSIAN WAR PRISONERS

London. — Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov, in a 1,200-word diplomatic note accused the German high command of introducing the "universal practice of physical extermination" of war prisoners.

The German plans were said to have called for:

"Universal plunder of the population of our country in both towns and villages, accompanied by seizure and shipment to Germany of the personal property of Soviet citizens and the property of the Soviet state."

"Utter destruction of towns and villages from which the Nazis were forced to retreat under the blows of the armed forces of the Soviet Union."

"Seizure by the German army of occupation of land given by the Soviet state in perpetuity for the free use of collective farms and the settlement of German managers and German landowners on the seized land."

"Five labor and bondage for our workers and peasants under the rule of German imperialist invaders."

SHORT WAVE SYSTEM

Canada Is Considering Proposal To Establish Broadcasting

Ottawa. — The House of Commons radio committee has placed a proposal for construction of a short wave broadcasting system in Canada at the top of its agenda.

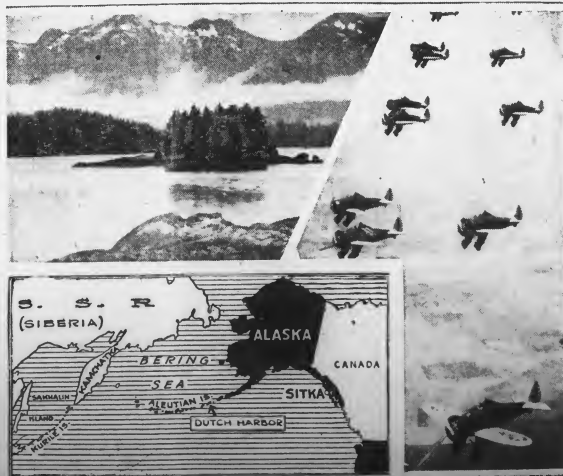

Learning that equipment is immediately available but that the opportunity for purchase may disappear at any time, the committee defeated a proposal to make an interim report to parliament.

At a previous session the committee learned from Dr. A. Frigon, CBC assistant general manager, that short wave channels allocated to Canada now are in use by other countries. It was possible to still operate on these channels but in some cases there might be interference, he said.

Kodak pictures can be secured at any time and there are still a plentiful supply of Journals containing the flood scenes. The Kodak pictures sell at 6c each or a set of 12 for 72c. Don't be without pictures of the flood. Remember how you sought out the 1923 flood pictures to compare with scenes of last May. The same would hold true should another flood occur in the years to come.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid.
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true.
One in a million—that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always honest;
Firm and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew.
Our wonderful mother—that mother was you.
Ever remembered by her husband and family.
